About Jackie

Jackie Garza-Rothrock's general civil litigation practice focuses on prosecuting and defending breach of contract, breach of fiduciary relationship, fraud and securities violations. Her civil practice also involves the defense of derivative suits and qui tam/false claims cases. Jackie provides counsel in all aspects of the process, including federal and state courts in Texas, preparing/defending pre-trial motions, discovery and trial. Prior to re-joining Bracewell, Jackie was in-house counsel at a large financial services group where she advised senior management and the board of directors on corporate governance matters.

Jackie also represents clients in arbitration, grand jury investigations and other criminal defense matters, including matters involving securities, antitrust and banking. Her regulatory work is focused primarily on Securities and Exchange Commission matters. In addition, Jackie has experience in corporate internal investigations and advising on corporate governance matters. She also counsels clients on public finance matters.
