About Lori

Lori Horvilleur has over twelve years of experience as a landman. She specializes in designing and executing due diligence programs for acquisition, divestiture and financing transactions for clients in the oil and gas sector. Additionally, she has significant real estate experience in representing developers and investors in all phases of the development, financing and operation of wind and solar projects.

Prior to joining Bracewell, Lori worked in-house as a land manager for an oil and gas investment company and has held a land professional role with another Houston law firm.
