

Biden Could Pursue ‘Easy’ Climate Solutions, Elements of the Green New Deal if Elected: Experts

Media Mentions

October 02, 2020 | Utility Dive | 1 minute read | Washington, DC

Frank Maisano, senior principal in Bracewell’s Policy Resolution Group, shared his thoughts with Utility Dive on the oil and gas sector’s concern about the potential impact of a Biden presidency.

Maisano said that Biden will pursue “easy” climate solutions if he is elected such as mandating climate risk disclosure, addressing the social cost of carbon and re-engaging in the Paris climate agreement. “Those are the things that are going to be quick wins for Biden should he take office,” added Maisano.

Click here to read more on Utility Dive.

Related People

Frank V. Maisano
Senior Principal
WASHINGTON, DC
+1.202.828.5864
frank.maisano@bracewell.com

Related Industries

Energy
Infrastructure

Related Practices

Government Relations
Oil & Gas
Renewable Energy
Strategic Communications