

EPA Scraps Mercury Rule Math in Effort Critics Say Will Hamper Regulation of Pollution

Media Mentions

April 17, 2020 | Washington Examiner | 1 minute read | Washington, DC

Jeff Holmstead spoke with the Washington Examiner about the EPA's decision to ease restrictions on mercury emissions by power plant. He notes that the action reflects what the current administration regards as the EPA's "proper role."

"They didn't want to defend something that the Obama administration had done that the thought really was a huge overreach," said Holmstead.

Click here to read the entire article.

Related People

Jeffrey R. Holmstead

Partner

WASHINGTON, DC

+1.202.828.5852

jeff.holmstead@bracewell.com

Related Industries

Energy

Related Practices

Environment, Lands and

Resources

Government Enforcement &

Investigations