Bracewell's William A. "Trey" Wood and Mark Dendinger were recognized by Law360 for helping score a win for Major League Baseball as a Texas federal judge ordered the bankrupt owner of 19 Bally Sports-branded regional sports networks to pay the full contract rate under television broadcast agreements with four MLB teams, saying fees under the deals represent the actual value of the services being provided to the debtor.

Bracewell is co-counsel to MLB's commissioner and its clubs.
