

Trump's Energy Pick Wants You to Love Oil And Stop Worrying About the Climate

Media Mentions

December 23, 2024 | Houston Chronicle | 1 minute read

The Houston Chronicle covered Department of Energy Secretary nominee Chris Wright's approach to marketing and messaging on the oil and gas industry and climate change.

Frank Maisano of Bracewell's Policy Resolution Group noted that Wright's [communications] skill set is reminiscent of Trump's energy secretary during his first term, former Texas Gov. Rick Perry.

"Perry knew how to make a presentation and connect with people," Maisano said. "(Wright) has not been shy about getting out there and presenting his arguments in a way that's understandable and easy for the public to consume."

Related People

Frank V. Maisano
Senior Principal
WASHINGTON, DC
+1.202.828.5864
frank.maisano@bracewell.com

Related Industries

Energy

Related Practices

Oil & Gas