With Donald Trump winning the election and Republicans possibly taking control of both the Senate and the House, Bracewell senior political strategist Liam Donovan told Bloomberg that Trump will be in a far more effective position in achieving his goals this time around.

"A lot of the impact he'll have is the incredibly expansive use of unilateral power," said Donovan. "That's the stuff that'll shock the system. He's not going to want to have another situation where lawyers are telling him no."
