

Financial Institutions Litigation

Our litigation team is highly skilled and experienced in advising financial institutions on litigation matters. We develop a comprehensive approach to litigation that draws on the firm's resources in the areas of law that directly impact the financial services sector, such as government enforcement and investigations, corporate and securities, tax, labor and employment, employee benefits, environmental strategies, real estate and restructuring. Our broad experience and commitment to collaborating across practices allow us to provide informed counsel on virtually any litigation matter.

We represent US and international banks, thrifts, trust companies, broker-dealers, specialty finance organizations and private equity groups in complex litigation, arbitration and mediation. Our litigators work closely with our transactional and regulatory lawyers to advise clients on potential risks so they can avoid possible litigation in the future.
