A View from Washington: Environmental Regulatory Reform and Infrastructure Principles

March 6, 2018

By: Brittany M. Pemberton

In the March installment of our Environmental Essentials for In-House Counsel webinar series, Brittany Pemberton and Christine Wyman shared insights to be learned from the Administration's proposed budget and talked briefly about several recent regulatory reforms, including methane rules affecting the oil-and-gas sector and the reversal of the "once in always in" policy. They also discussed the White House's recently released legislative principles for rebuilding America's infrastructure.
