About Taylor

Taylor Stuart counsels clients in the energy and infrastructure sectors on matters related to federal natural resources law and policy. She has experience representing clients on regulatory and litigation matters involving the U.S. Department of the Interior and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. Taylor also advises clients on environmental permitting issues relevant to offshore wind development.

Prior to joining Bracewell, Taylor served as a law clerk for the Honorable Micaela Alvarez of the McAllen Division of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Texas, one of the nation's busiest federal courts. She also completed internships at various federal agencies, including interning for Secretary of the Interior, Sally Jewell; the Department of the Interior's Office of the Solicitor; and FERC's Office of Administrative Litigation.
