

Serena Rwejuna: Empowering Women Experiencing Homelessness and Leading With Intention

Podcast | Madam Policy

January 04, 2022 | 1 minute read

Serena Rwejuna is a leader. Whether through her service as Calvary Women's Services Board President, her recent ascension to partnership at White & Case LLP, or her dedication to her extensive network of young women leaders, Serena leads by example and paves the way for others. Join hosts Dee Martin, Yasmin Nelson and Caitlin Sickles as they chat about the importance of representation in the legal space; how to recruit and retain diverse talent; and the importance of perseverance in accomplishing goals. Also, you won't want to miss the story of how Dee recruited Serena to the Calvary Board...and Caitlin...and likely Yasmin! All share Calvary's mission of providing housing, health education, and employment programs to help empower women experiencing homelessness in Washington, D.C. What's next for Serena at the helm of Calvary? Tune in and find out about some exciting upcoming events and opportunities! This episode is the perfect way to kick off 2022! Don't miss out!
